This year the Gulf Coast Association of Geological Societies is celebrating its tenth anniversary. In this interval the membership of the participating societies, has grown to become the second largest geological organization in the United States. It is surpassed by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists (AAPG).

The Gulf Coast Association (GCAGS) was originated by Earl B. Noble, President of AAPG in 1945-46. He suggested at the annual meeting of AAPG held in Chicago in 1946 that the Mississippi Geological Society organize and act as host for an experimental regional meeting of AAPG. It was Mr. Noble's concern that the AAPG was becoming too large. Membership in AAPG at that time was slightly more than 4,000, the size of GCAGS today.

The first and tenth meetings were held in the Buena Vista Hotel on almost the same dates—October 24 and 25, 1946. On the program were such speakers as: J. B. Storey, the immediate past president of the Mississippi Geological Society during whose term the meeting had its inception; Urban B. Hughes; Frederick F. Mellen, then President of the Mississippi Geological Society; Watson H. Monroe; Clyde W. Alexander; Grover Murray, Jr.; Henry V. Howe; E. D. Pressler; F. Stearns MacNeil; Paul Weaver; C. L. Moody; Fred W. Bates; A. M. Lloyd; A. M. Current; F. R. Shroeder; George P. Zebal and Tom McClouthin. With such a distinguished group of geologists laying the foundation, it is no surprise that the organization has flourished.

Following this Regional Meeting, similar ones were held in San Antonio, November 5 and 6, 1947; Houston, December 2 and 3, 1948; and Biloxi again on October 12-14, 1949.

In 1950 the meeting was no longer designated a regional meeting of the AAPG, but was for the first time held under the auspices of the GCAGS. The organization was composed of eight geological societies, each an affiliate of AAPG. The original societies were New Orleans, the host society, Corpus Christi, Houston, Tyler, Shreveport, Lake Charles, Lafayette and Jackson. In 1952, Baton Rouge was added, in 1954, San Antonio or the South Texas Geological Society, and Tallahassee or the Southeastern Geological Society, and in 1956, Beaumont joined. The year 1959 marked our first casualty when Baton Rouge dropped out.

Last year for the first time AAPG was asked to designate the GCAGS meeting as its Gulf Coastal Area Regional Meeting. This year the designation has again been made regarding this meeting.

In 1953 the constitution was adopted and officers were elected. Between 1950 and 1953 the organization was governed by the Chairman of the Steering Committee, in each case the representative to GCAGS from the host society.

The organization was founded so that subjects and problems which were common to the Gulf Coast Region, but did not necessarily pertain to the national organization, could receive the publicity they so richly deserved. In this function it has performed exceedingly well.

Through financial support to the Gulf Coast Section of SEPM and with the cooperation of the local member societies, the location or relocation and descriptions of the type locality for each formation within the Gulf Coast is at present being undertaken. This project needs our fullest cooperation.

The financial status of the organization as of the middle of July was as follows:
$5,627.26 of 2% U.S. Government Bonds which mature in 1965
$5,163.08 on deposit at First Federal Savings and Loan, Jackson, Mississippi bearing 4% interest
$3,311.01 checking account in First National Bank, Jackson, Mississippi
Inventory at Cambe Log Library located in Houston, Texas is valued at $27,591.00

It has indeed been an honor and pleasure to have served you this year as your President. May those who follow me in this capacity be as fortunate in receiving the cooperation and assistance which have aided me so greatly during my term of office.
